Mega project aims to provide new praying areas and essential services to millions of pilgrims who visit Makkah seasonally for Hajj and Umrah. With the Al-Ka'bah as its pivot, the project extends radially outwards across a distance of 684 m. It includes the construction of a new Haram building, courtyards around the mosque, a new services building, a central utility complex, a hospital, civil defense and security facilities, as well as bridges and pedestrian walkways.

Such a scale allows the new Haram to welcome about one million worshippers, exceeding the current capacity even when all expansions are taken into account.
